understanding of diversity issues within the national insurance industry.

MIDS will survey all insurers that collect $300 million or more in premiums nationally; this is approximately 600 companies encompassing 75% of the national industry’s market volume. In our past California surveys, the 200 companies we surveyed represented about 43% of the national market.

It goes without saying that we are excited to take a first-ever look at the national insurance industry with regards to these important issues of diversity. As we have done in the past, our survey will seek to increase transparency by asking questions about each company’s supplier and governing board diversity efforts.

California’s efforts have certainly moved the needle forward on supplier and governing board diversity; my fellow insurance commissioners and I are hopeful that we will now start to see similar progress nationally and in their respective states. For more information, please visit the new MIDS resource page here.

“As California goes, so goes the nation.” We are proud to see that this has certainly become a reality for the diversity work that we - myself, IDI staff, and the Insurance Diversity Task Force - have been focused on since the first survey was issued in 2011.

Thank you for providing us with your continued support and expertise. MIDS is a monumental new effort and we could not have taken this step forward without you.

Sincerely,

DAVE JONES

Specifically, these efforts are meant to encourage increased procurement from the nation’s diverse suppliers and greater diversity on insurer governing boards.
