

Olivia Walls

Olivia Walls is one of the owners of Intouch Marketing, a marketing agency specializing in lead generation using inbound marketing strategies.

Mrs. Walls received her Bachelors of Science Degree in Business Operations Management from California State Polytechnic University, Pomona. Knowing she wanted to be an entrepreneur early on in her career, she sought to work in various capacities in multiple industries. As such, she worked for General Dynamics as a Manufacturing Analyst, Leader of California as an Industrial Engineer, Gibraltar Products as an Operations Manager, Specialized Business Systems as a Material Handling Sales Specialist, and Totalplan Business Interiors as a Senior Project Manager. Olivia feels this experience was invaluable in helping her understand the challenges business owners face in trying to run and market their businesses.

Olivia has served as the Vice President of the American Indian Chamber of Commerce of California since 1998, helping the organization grow from a handful of members in Southern California to over 300 members statewide with Chapters in Southern California, Northern California, and San Diego. She is also on the Board of the American Indian Chamber Education Fund, which provides scholarships to Native American students in need.

Olivia has also served as an Advisor for Chi Omega Fraternity for 22 years, President of the South Hills Chapter of Business Network International for 3 years, President of South Hills Professionals for 1 year and is currently the President of the PTSA for IPoly High School in Pomona. She is also a member of Soroptimist International for San Dimas/ La Verne.

Olivia has been married to her husband Bill for 26 years and has two children, Samantha and Ethan.
